Public Service Commission

Peel Commission

Hunter Commission

Simon Commission

Options:

- A. Public Service Commission
- B. Peel Commission
- C. Hunter Commission
- D. Simon Commission

■ Answer & Detailed Solution:

The correct answer is Peel Commission.

Key Points

Peel Commission:

After the First freedom struggle of 1857, the British government sought to bring changes in the military system.

Peel Commission was headed by Jonathan Peel.

Peel Commission suggested reforms, and the British government accepted these recommendations and redesigned the military.

While reorganizing the Indian army in the post-1857 revolt, the Jonathan Peel Commission had the task of identifying social groups and regions from which „loyal■ soldiers could be recruited.

The principle it emphasized was that the native army should be composed of different nationalities and castes and mixed promiscuously through each regiment.

Recruiting of soldiers was seen more in terms of the communities to which they belonged rather than as individuals. Caste, religion, and ethnicity, or race became more crucial while enlisting a soldier.

Additional Information

Simon Commission-

Simon Commission was a group of 7 British Parliament members.

The chairman of the Simon Commission was Sir John Simon.

The commission was set up for analysis of the Government of India Act 1919.

The Simon Commission was to come 10 years after the act of 1919, but it came prematurely in 1928.

The Commission's report was published in 1930.

Hunter Commission-

The Hunter Commission of 1882 was presided over by Sir William Hunter and was appointed by Lord Ripon, the then-viceroy of India.

The hunter commission was constituted on 3rd April 1882, after a request of the general council of education was made to Ripon.

The main objective of Hunter commission was to consider different aspects of education in India, paying particular attention to primary education.

Public Service Commission-

The public service commission in India was established by the Government of India act 1919.

Central Public service commission was set up in 1926 for recruiting Civil servants.

The government of India act of 1919 created a new office of the High Commissioner for India in London.

All of the above

None of the above

Options:

A. Only 1 and 2

B. Only 2 and 3

C. All of the above

D. None of the above

■ Answer & Detailed Solution:

The correct answer is All of the above.

Key Points

Causes of the Failure of the Revolt of 1857:

English Superiority in a Variety of Fields:

The resources of British Imperialism were limitless.

The British army was excessive in size, having been transported into India in vast numbers from many parts of the world, and many more men were recruited in India itself to put down the Mutiny.

The British possessed better weapons than the insurgents.

The British possessed sophisticated rifles and cannons. The Indians had canons, but they were ancient and scarce in number. They were usually using swords and spears to combat.

The British Navy was superior.

No Common Goal

The revolt had no overarching ideology or objective. After seizing control of numerous provinces, leaders and rebels had no long-term strategy for India.

Every rebellion joined it for its own reasons: rulers joined because they were losing power in the region; Sepoys joined because they felt inferior and wanted to restore the glory of the Mughals, civilians because of religious interference; peasants joined because they wanted to remove zamindars and moneylenders; and so on.

This made it simple for the British to put down the rebellion.

All-India participation was absent.

Even though the revolt was massive and widespread, it was mostly localized, confined, and poorly organized.

The Mutiny was not widespread. It was never a pan-India character, but rather a regional, confined, and poorly organized one.

The Punjab, the United Provinces, Rohilkhand, Oudh, the Territory between the Narmada and the Chambal, and the Western sections of Bengal, as well as Bihar in the northeast, were all devastated.

Under Dost Mohammad, Afghanistan was a friendly country. Sindh was quiet, and Rajputana was devoted.

Though local regiments mutinied at Kolhapur in the Southern Maratha area, and there were numerous violent eruptions of sentiments in Hyderabad, the Nizam's Capital, there was no significant movement south of the Narmada River.

Central and Eastern Bengal were unaffected, and Nepal aided the British in putting down the rebellion.

As a result, the uprising was limited to a local level rather than a national one.

Hence all the statements are correct.

E. None of the above/More than one of the above

■ Answer & Detailed Solution:

The correct answer is Gwalior.

Key Points

Lakshmibai, the Rani of Jhansi was born on 19 November 1828.

She was one of the leading figures of the Indian Rebellion of 1857 and became a symbol of resistance to the British Raj for Indian nationalists.

She was named 'Manikarnika Tambe' or nicknamed 'Manu'.

Lakshmi Bai was educated at home and was more independent than others.

She was married to 'Raja Gangadhar Rao', the King of Jhansi in 1842.

She gave birth to a boy in 1851 and named him 'Damodar Rao'.

After the death of the king, the Britishers annexed Jhansi through the doctrine of lapse method.

Lakshmi Bai fought wars with the Britishers very bravely in order to save Jhansi.

Nana Saheb and Tatya Tope were her contemporaries.

Rani Lakshmi Bai died on 18th June 1858 while fighting a war of revolt against the British.

The Samadhi of Rani Lakshmi Bai is situated in the complex of the Phool Bagh area of Gwalior.

Virangana Lakshmi Bai is a well-known freedom fighter of India, who fought against the British for the freedom of the country.

Guru Ram Singh

Guru Gobind Singh

Options:

- A. Guru Ram Das
B. Guru Nanak
C. Guru Ram Singh
D. Guru Gobind Singh

■ Answer & Detailed Solution:

The correct answer is Guru Ram Singh.

Key Points

Kuka Movement-

The Kuka Movement was the first significant movement against the new British rule in Punjab.

The Kuka movement was based on both political and religious angles.

The Punjabi people's first considerable response to the British Empire's post-1849 new political structure was the Kuka Movement.

The Namdharis were also known as “Kukas” because of their trademark style of reciting the “Gurbani” (Teachings of the Guru).

This style was in a high-pitched voice called “Kook” in Punjabi. Thus, the Namdharis were also called “Kukas”.

Baba Ram Singh started the Kuka Movement.

The Kukas wore only white, hand-woven clothes and boycotted British education, products, and laws. In 1872.

Ram Singh was captured and exiled to Rangoon and 65 Kukas were blown away from canons by the British.

Important Points

Guru Ram Singh (1816- 1872)

Satguru Ram Singh, son of a poor carpenter, was born on 3rd February 1816 in the small village of Bhaini, around 7 kilometers away from Ludhiana.

Guru Ram Singh founded the Namdhari Sect on 12th April 1857 at Bhaini Sahib.

Guru Ram Singh asked his followers to boycott everything which bore the stamp of the British Government. In course of time, Baba Ram Singh became a secular chief of Kukas.

He appointed Governors and Deputy Governors to organize Kukas in different districts of Punjab. He also inspired young men by giving them military training.

Syed Ghulam Hussain

Options:

- A. Mohd. Raza Khan
- B. Shitab Rai
- C. Rai Durlabh
- D. Syed Ghulam Hussain

■ Answer & Detailed Solution:

The correct answer is Mohd. Raza Khan.

Key Points

Treaty of Allahabad-

The treaty of Allahabad took place in 1765.

The Treaty of Allahabad was an outcome of the Battle of Buxar in 1764 fought between the combined forces of the Mughal emperor, Nawab of Awadh and Bengal, and the British East India Company (EIC).

After the victory in the Battle of Buxar in 1764, Robert Clive signed two separate treaties, one with Shuja-ud-Daulah (Nawab of Oudh), and one with Shah Aam-II (Mughal Emperor) at Allahabad.

The Mughal Emperor signed away the right to collect taxes (Diwani rights) from Bengal, Bihar, and Orissa to the British.

In return, the company had to pay the emperor an annual sum of Rs 26 Lakhs and Rs 53 Lakhs for 'Nizamat' expenses.

Robert Clive made Shuja-Ud-Daulah surrender Allahabad and Kara to Shah Alam II (Mughal Emperor).

At that time, the Company was neither interested in taking responsibility for tax revenue collection nor it was capable to do so. Therefore, the company appointed two Diwans-Mohammad Raza Khan for Bengal and Raja Shitab Rai for Bihar.

Important Points

Robert Clive-

Major-General Robert Clive was the first British Governor of the Bengal Presidency.

Clive began as a writer for the East India Company (EIC) which established the military and political supremacy of the EIC by securing a decisive victory at the Battle of Plassey(1757) in Bengal.

Robert Clive was the Governor of Bengal from 1757-60 and from 1765-67.

Robert Clive started a 'Society of Trade' in 1765 but it was later abolished.

Robert Clive Introduce Dual System where the company was the Diwan and the Nawab held the Nizamat.
